

Teadira Perez

Originally from Venezuela, Teadira brings two very important attributes to her teaching: a passion for languages and an incredible level of patience. She has worn different hats ranging from professor to director of languages at the University of Merida in Venezuela. Along the way, she managed to complete her Ph.D. in the Teaching of English. Given that being able to speak more than one language has opened up many doors for her, she finds it easy to motivate students on their path to becoming bilingual.
